Abstract

Social media today is used by at least one third of the world's population. The use of social media has been on a rise since the early 2000s. Over these years, it has evolved into a powerful communication tool which allows one to share content, ideas and thoughts openly and freely. Social media being a place which provides one with freedom of speech, it attracts one to engage in social conversations online. KANDINSKY Mobile application provides a visualization of these social conversations.

In these social conversations where everyone is being expressive, there are many types of sentiment being let out. It will be meaningful to analyze and visualize the sentiments of these social conversations. In this project, the sentiments involved in the social conversations will be analyzed using Sentiment Analysis and will be visualized on top of the current visualization of social conversations in KANDINSKY Mobile. Visualizing these sentiments will help unfold social patterns and behaviors and help people make better sense out of the social world.

1. Introduction

This chapter provides a general background to the project and its motivations, followed by a description of the project scope and the report organization.

1.1 Motivation

Social media has grown to become a huge part of the everyday life of one third of the world population today. [1] The number of people using social media platforms have been on a steady rise since the early 2000s (Figure 1) and it is continuing to increase by day.

Not only does social media serve as an entertainment platform, it has turned into an extremely powerful communication platform or tool. It has significantly changed the way people communicate today. It facilitates the communication and sharing of ideas, contents, thoughts and information virtually. Social media serves as a platform and opportunity for one to share his or her opinions and views freely and openly. In a nutshell, social media today provides a virtual space where one is given his or her freedom of speech which allows one to be expressive and engage in social conversations through these platforms.

An end-to-end visualization system, KANDINSKY Mobile, was developed to support multi-faceted visualization of these social conversations associated with a specific anchor post which are text, images or videos uploaded into social media platforms by users. [2] As of now, the only social media platform KANDINSKY supports will be YouTube. Hence, all the examples and explanation of social conversations done in this and the following sections will be referring to conversations occurred on YouTube's "comments" section.

In KANDINSKY, social conversations are visualized using a collection of circles and concentric circles where a circle represents a social comment and a concentric circle represents a collection of comments in a conversation thread (figure 4). [2] This visualization provides users with a bird's eye view of the conversation landscape. As seen from figure 4, the anchor post is a YouTube video - "Build Quiz Game in 30 minutes | Unity 2D Tutorial | Madfireon" uploaded by an user. The visualization shows an overview of the social conversations took place in the "comments" section of this particular YouTube video by representing the comments as circles and concentric circles.

On top of the current visualization of social conversation in KANDINSKY, it will be meaningful to visualize the sentiments of these social conversation. In social conversations where everyone is being expressive, there are different kinds of emotions or sentiments that are let out. Visualizing these sentiments involved will help unfold social patterns and behaviors and help people make better sense out of the social world. Understanding the sentiments involved in the social conversations could be beneficial to both individuals and businesses. For example, businesses could discover how customers are feeling, positively or negatively, about a certain product or service of theirs. This information being available to them could help them gain real insights and help them make informed decisions to help their businesses. Hence, leveraging on these sentiments in social conversations and visualizing them well could help draw insights for both individuals and businesses.

1.2 Objectives and Scope

The goal of this project is to visualize the sentiments involved in social conversation threads in social media platforms. It aims to allow users to visualize the sentiments of the social conversations along with the visualization of social conversations in KANDINSKY. A social conversation consists of a top-level comment and its respective replies. Each comment in a social conversation will firstly be identified as either a positive, neutral or a negative comment and then visualization of the sentiments will be done on top of the current KANDINSKY visualization.

Visualizing sentiments allows the audience to grasp the information shown more easily since the human brain processes visual information far more quickly and easily compared to written information. [3] This visualization will provide a clear form of communication to the audience allowing them to have a quick and a clear understanding of the information presented which is the sentiment of a comment. Understanding the underlying sentiments in these conversations will be extremely vital for the decision-making process for both individuals and businesses.

1.3 Organization

This report concise of 6 chapters. Chapter 1 being the introduction, the rest of the chapters are as follows:

Chapter 2: Related Work

This chapter reviews KANDINSKY Mobile application, which is what the project will be built on top of.

Chapter 3: Implementation

This chapter reviews the methods, tools and algorithms used to carry out the project work.

Chapter 4: Conclusions and Future Work

This chapter concludes the project work and provides recommendations for future work.

2. Related work

This chapter analyzes the existing KANDINSKY Mobile application which the visualization of sentiments will be performed on top of.

KANDINSKY Mobile extends KANDINSKY application to mobile devices which aims to allow users to have a bird's-eye view of the social conversation landscape. Additionally, it provides a couple of extensive features such as: keyword search function and enabling the visualization of comments which are similar. [4]

KANDINSKY Mobile has been built using Ionic 4 framework while the internal structure is built using Angular 8 framework. The figure below depicts the architecture of KANDINSKY Mobile [4].

As seen from figure 5, the persistent layer is responsible for offline storage, services layer is responsible for extraction and processing of social posts and the presentation layer is responsible for the visualization.

The Social Service module in the persistence layer helps to retrieve anchor posts and its comments from social media platforms. With YouTube being an example, the URL of a video will be provided by the user. Kandinsky Service together with the platform-specific social service, YouTube Service in this case, will extract the ID of the post to which the video URL provided points to. Then, it'll be checked if the ID of the post is found in the storage. If it's not, API requests will be sent to fetch the post, its comments and the replies to it, if any. Upon retrieving the post and its comments, it'll then be stored in the local storage.

Upon fetching the relevant data, preprocessing is performed on the comments. Preprocessing includes model mapping and enhancement. In model mapping, the data fetched is being reformatted and transformed. The comments are transformed into a specific order to show the hierarchical representation of comments, top-level comment and its respective replies. In the enhancement process, topics are being generated for each comment. Upon identifying the topic of each comment, another iteration is executed to find comments that are of the same topic, using cosine similarity. If the cosine similarity function returns a score of 0.5, it means the two comments are similar to each other. Upon enhancing the comments, all the new information of a comment is then stored. [4]

Upon performing the extraction and preprocessing of data, visualization was performed. KANDINSKY Mobile visualizes the relationship among comments in the social conversation threads using hierarchies. The visualization is constructed adhering to the 6 Gestalt Principles – similarity, proximity, closure, continuity, common fate and symmetry. Each concentric circle represents a particular conversation thread where the inner most circle in the concentric circle represents a comment and the circles surrounding it represents the replies to the comment. The colors of the circles are used to distinguish the comment's author. The size of each individual circle represents the number of likes the comment has received. [4]

With this extensive visualization of the circle's layout, the user is now able to get a bird's-eye view of the social conversations occurred in the comments section of a particular YouTube video. Besides the circle's layout, there are other features like the timeline control slider and spectrum control which are part of the canvas that has made the visualization interactive. The timeline control slider allows the user to control the current timestamp which serves as a filter to display only the comment within the range (figure 6). The spectrum control allows users to control the comments to be highlight with a given time frame (figure 7). When the spectrum mode is activated, a bar chart is shown to help the user visualize the number of comments made over time. The start and the end points of the spectrum could be controlled by the user. This sums up the visualization of social conversations in KANDINSKY Mobile.

3. Implementation

In this chapter, the methods, tools and algorithms used to carry out the project work will be explained in detail. The project work is split into 2 major steps which are Sentiment Analysis and Visualization.

3.1 Step 1: Sentiment Analysis

The goal of this step is to identify if a comment made by a user in a social conversation is either a positive, neutral or a negative comment. Sentiment analysis was performed to achieve this.

3.1.1 Types of Sentiment Analysis

Sentiment analysis is a text classification tool which analyses a string of input which could potentially be an opinion and determines its polarity or its underlying sentiment. There are 4 main types of sentiment analysis: Emotion detection, Fine-grained sentiment analysis, Intent analysis and Aspect-based sentiment analysis. [5] Fine-grained Sentiment Analysis helps in determining the polarity of an opinion. It helps in identifying if an opinion is positive or negative, or even higher specifications like very positive or very negative, if needed. Emotion detection aims to detect all types of emotions like happiness, sadness, frustration, etc. Aspect-based sentiment analysis identifies an opinion regarding a particular aspect or feature of a product. Intent analysis determines the kind of intention expressed. As the aim of the sentiment analysis task in this project is to identify the sentiment of a comment (positive, neutral or negative), fine-grained sentiment analysis was performed.

3.1.2 Sentiment Analysis Algorithms

On top of the types of sentiment analysis, there are 2 major sentiment analysis algorithms. They are Rule-based approach and Automatic approach [5]. The rule-based approach is carried out based on a set of predefined rules. It involves operations such as stemming, tokenizing, parsing and lexicon analysis. Even though this approach might produce results to a certain extent, there are a few downsides to it. It lacks flexibility and it does not consider how words are put together in a sequence which could possibly affect its precision. On the other hand, the automatic approach relies on supervised machine learning techniques instead of predefined rules. Due to this, the automatic approach can produce a much higher precision. Hence, the automatic approach will be a better approach to adapt to perform sentiment analysis to achieve a better performance.

3.1.3 JavaScript Sentiment Analysis Packages

Since, the project scope does not include analyzing comments for a specific industry, pre-built models which were trained and built using general lexicons could be leveraged on for this sentiment analysis task. There are several JavaScript NPM Packages available for sentiment analysis which could potentially be used. Out of all the available packages, two of the modules were chosen: Wink-Sentiment.js and Sentiment.js. Both chosen packages perform fine-grained sentiment analysis using the automatic approach. How both the analysis tools work was explained in detail and their performances were compared with each other to choose the best fitted package which will help identify the sentiments of the comments in social conversations for this project.

3.1.3.1 Sentiment

Sentiment is a Node.js module which uses AFINN-165 wordlist as well as Emoji Sentiment Ranking to perform sentiment analysis. [6] AFINN is a list of terms in English which are manually rated for valence with a number between -5 and 5 by Finn Arup Nielson. [7] Sentiment analysis is performed by referencing the input string of words with the AFINN list and retrieving their scores.

Figures 8 and 9 show an example of a result obtained from analyzing a comment using Sentiment package. The comment used in this example is: “Hi! Great video! Did it take you a few attempts to get such great cakesicles or are they quite easy to make? Thanks 😊”. Upon analyzing this comment, it produces a result object which comprises of the following objects: calculation, negative, positive, score, token and words.

Token refers to the tokens (words and emojis) found in the comment. There is a total of 23 words and 1 emoji in this comment, making the total number of tokens to be 24. Words is an array of words in the comment that were found in the AFINN list. A total of 5 tokens from the comment are found in the AFINN list which are: a happy face emoji, “thank”, “easy”, “great” and “great”. The sentiment value for each word can be seen from figure 8 where “😊” has a valence value of 3, “thanks” has a valence value of 2, “easy” has a valence value of 1, “great” has a valence value of twice, and the remaining tokens which don’t fall under positive or negative are deemed to be neutral with a value of 0.

Calculation is an array of words which either falls under the positive or negative valence with their AFINN score. For this comment, 5 out of the 23 tokens are either positive or negative. Negative is an array of negative words in the comment that are found in the AFINN list. This comment has no negative words hence an empty array is returned. Positive is an array of positive words in the comment that are found in the AFINN list. 5 positive tokens are found in the comment.

Score refers to the calculated score by summing up the sentiment values of the words recognized (in the AFINN list). The score obtained for this comment is obtained by summing up the valence value for each token which is 12 ($3 + 2 + 1 + 3 + 3$). Comparative refers to the comparative score, also known as the average score, of the comment where the sentiment values of the words are summed up and then divided by the total number of tokens. As for this comment, the comparative score is 0.5 ($12 / 24$ tokens). The comparative score for each comment ranges from -5 to 5. The comparative score of the comment is used to determine the sentiment of the comment. If it is below 0, the comment is deemed as a negative comment. If it equals to 0, it is deemed as a neutral comment and if it is more than 0, it is deemed as a positive comment. Hence, this comment is deemed as a positive comment. Upon receiving the result object, this classification was done as seen from figure 10. [6]

3.1.3.2 Wink-Sentiment

Wink-Sentiment is a Node.js module which analyzes text based on AFINN and emoji sentiment ranking as well. Wink-Sentiment is able to process and analyze phrases with hashtags and emoticons. Additionally, it can detect and score two-word phrases. [9]

Figure 11 shows an example of a result obtained from analyzing a comment using Sentiment package. The comment used in this example is the same as the one used in the previous section:

“Hi! Great video! Did it take you a few attempts to get such great cakesicles or are they quite easy to make? Thanks 😊”. Upon analyzing the comment, it produces a result object which comprises of the following: score, normalizedScore, tokenizedPhrase object. Score is calculated for each comment where the score of each word is summed up together. If the score of a comment is positive, it is deemed as a positive comment. If the score is negative, it is deemed as a negative comment and if it is a zero score, it is deemed as a neutral one. This classification can be seen from figure 10 as well. As for this example, the score is 12 which is obtained by summing up 3, 3, 1, 2 and 3, the score of each word, which could be seen from figure 11. Since the score of the comment is positive, it is deemed as a positive comment. The tokenizedPhrase consist of objects of tokens. Each token is assigned with a tag and score. The tag identifies if the character is a word, punctuation, emoticon, hashtag phrase, a mentioned phrase (mentions done in social media posts) or an emoji. Mentions will not be considered in the analysis as it does not have any meaning to it. As compared to Sentiment, tokenization is done slightly differently in Wink-Sentiment. In Sentiment, punctuations are all removed before being tokenized. Hence, it had a total of 24 tokens. In Wink-Sentiment, every character, including punctuations, are tokenized. Hence, it has a total of 26 tokens.

3.1.4 Experiment

In the above examples, both the tools were able to correctly predict that that comment is a positive one. Hence, experiments with different types of comment were conducted to compare the performance of Sentiment and Wink-Sentiment. In this experiment, ten random YouTube videos from different genres were selected (Table 1). Videos from different genres were picked to cover different types and varieties of comments to ensure fairness in the results produced by the experiment. 200 comments from each video were sampled and analyzed by each of the tool. Upon analyzing the sentiment of each comment, the comment and its identified sentiment was extracted out. After which, each comment was manually checked if it was positive, neutral or negative. They were then compared against the sentiment identified by each of the tool. The accuracy of each tool was then measured and compared with each other. The full experiment with the comments and the detailed results of the accuracies can be found in Appendix 1 for reference.

3.1.5 Results and Discussions

From conducting the experiments and looking closely into the results, the following conclusions were drawn as to why Wink-Sentiment is a better tool to analyze sentiments of comments in social conversations:

- 1) Wink-Sentiment obtains a higher precision is analyzing Emojis than Sentiment

COMMENT	ACTUAL	SENTIMENT	WINK-SENTIMENT

Figure 13 shows a snapshot of a couple of observations made from analyzing comments in different videos in table 1. The figure shows comments which only consist of emojis. For all the comments, the emojis express a positive message. However, Sentiment deemed the comments to be neutral. On the other hand, Wink-Sentiment was able to comprehend that the emojis express a positive message and hence classifying the comments correctly as positive comments.

Classifying emojis accurately is an important feature for this sentiment analysis task. The modern communication today, including social conversations online, involves emojis as much it involves words. Emoji is vastly adopted by people to express their emotions better [8]. Hence, it is important to correctly analyze the underlying sentiment of emojis used in these conversations to better analyze the conversation as a whole.

2) Wink-Sentiment can analyze two-word phrases

It is also observed that Wink-Sentiment can analyze two-word phrases while Sentiment is not able to. An example of the observation can be seen from figure 14. Figure 14 shows one of the observations made when analyzing the phrase “well done sis” from one of the videos from table 1. Wink-Sentiment is able to correctly recognize and identify the two-word phrase correctly. Figure 15 shows the result obtained when Wink-Sentiment is performed while figure 16 shows the result obtained when Sentiment is performed. As seen from figure 15, Wink-Sentiment correctly identifies that there is a two-word phrased present in the phrase by classifying it as “grouped”. Hence, the two-word phrase will be analyzed together instead of treating it as two individual tokens, and the phrase is then correctly identified as a positive one. On the other hand, Sentiment treats the all the tokens present in the phrase as individual tokens hence analyzes each token separately, as seen from figure 16, which makes the comment a neutral one.

Upon conducting the experiments and comparing the performances and features of Sentiment and Wink-Sentiment, Wink-Sentiment is a more appropriate tool to be used for the sentiment analysis task to identify the sentiment of each comment in a social conversation. Hence, Wink-Sentiment was used to perform sentiment analysis to identify the sentiment of each comment.

3.2 Step 2: Visualization

Upon performing sentiment analysis to identify the underlying sentiment of each comment, the next step will be visualizing them. As mentioned earlier, the visualization of the sentiments will be done on top of KANDINSKY's current visualization of social conversations (Figure 4) where the overview of the social conversations is visualized.

It is of utmost importance to incorporate the essential elements of visualization in visualizing the sentiments. Consistency being known to be one of the key elements in data visualization [9], it is made sure that the visualization of sentiment adheres to current style, colors and design of KANDINSKY's visualization.

A button, SentimentButton, is created below the existing Timestamp button (Figure 17). As seen from the figure, an emoji is used as the icon of the button to represent the visualization of sentiment analysis task. Clicking this button triggers the application to prompt the user to select the sentiment they would like to visualize (Figure 18). User is allowed to select either one or two sentiments to visualize. Selecting all three sentiments will mean all the concentric circles which represents the comments in the social conversations will be highlighted with a color, which will not be very useful in visualizing as there will be too much of information shown at once. This will not be useful and insightful to the user. Adhering to one of the key elements of "less is more" [9], the user is restricted to choose up till two sentiments at once to give them a more insightful visualization.

Upon choosing the sentiments and clicking on the “Let’s Visualize” button, the comments classified under the sentiment/s chosen will be highlighted by dimming the colors of the other circles and to further draw the audiences’ attention to these highlighted comments, an animation is done for the highlighted comments (circles) to zoom in and out which aims to give a popping out effect to pull the attention of the audience to these comments.

Additionally, a boundary box is drawn around them to show the sentiment the comments belong to. The color of the boundary box drawn around the circles is dependent on the sentiment. Comment classified as positive will have a green boundary box (Figure 19), while a neutral comment will have a yellow boundary (Figure 20) box and a negative comment will have a red boundary box (Figure 21).

Figures 19, 20 and 21 illustrates the visualization when only one sentiment is selected to visualize, either positive, neutral or negative. Figure 22 illustrates the visualization when 2 sentiments are selected to visualize, neutral and negative in this example. As seen from the figure, the boundary box plays an important role here to help audience easily distinguish the neutral and the negative comments.

As seen from the above figures, the sentiments of the comments are represented by their respective color of the border box. The concept of highlighting a comment using a border box is adhered from the current KANDINSKY visualization. In the current KANDINSKY visualization, boundary box is used to highlight the concentric circles which contains matching keyword entered in the search bar (Figure 23). Boundary box is also used to highlight a specific concentric circle when it is clicked on to display the comment (Figure 24). To practice consistency across the different functions on the same visualization canvas, search or the sentiment analysis function, the same boundary box concept is used to highlight the necessary concentric circles, according to the sentiment chosen by the user, with different colors.

Along with the overview of the social conversations, the user is now able to get an insight on the sentiment of the comments in the conversations as well (Figure 26). Figure 25 shows the overview of the social conversations before visualizing the sentiments while figure 26 shows the visualization of comments of the chosen sentiments (neutral and negative). With one glance, the visualization is now able to tell the user if this video has drawn more positive, neutral or negative comments from the public. This insightful information could be beneficial to both individuals and businesses.

4. Conclusions and Future work

4.1 Conclusions

In the large numbers of social conversations which happens on social media, there are different types of emotions that are being let out by different users. The types of emotions let out is a vital information which will benefit the user. Hence, in this project, these emotions are being tapped into, to provides users with the vital information. Sentiment analysis was performed to identify the emotions and adhering to design principles, they were visualized on top of KANDINSKY Mobile's overview visualization of social conversations.

4.2 Recommendation in Future Work

Currently, Wink-Sentiment model is only able to support English language. When it encounters any comment made in other languages, it will identify the comment as a neutral one. In the future, more languages could be added to the model. By adding more languages to the model, Wink-Sentiment will be able to analyze comments made in different language. Wink-Sentiment will then be able to produce more accurate results which will help users to make better sense out of the comments.

Additionally, one of the major challenges Sentiment Analysis face is sarcasm detection. Sarcasm refers to an ironic statement which is widely and often used today to mock someone. Social conversations contain several sarcastic comments made by users online. It is a continuous challenge for the sentiment analysis tool to detect that a particular comment is sarcastic and correctly analyze what sentiment the comment is truly trying to express. The sentiment analysis tool is still unable to do this and hence it only takes the literal meaning of each word to analyze the sentiment. Sarcasm detection remains to be a challenge for most of the sentiment tools, including Wink-Sentiment. Perhaps, this could be dealt with and the model could be improved in the future.

Additionally, KANDINSKY could be extended to support more social media platforms such as Facebook, Instagram and Twitter.

POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	hi you ok i just want ask you which better cream you use
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Hey....I don't get Americanbuttercream at my place plz suggest me wt can I use instead of that?
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Wait couldnt we just put the cake mixture into the molds and put them in it and mush it around to make it into the cake shape and then jus dip those in the choclote??
POSITIVE	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Thx for sharing
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Wats the substitution for butter cream?
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Lol, yeah i think we can
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	So cute but your should've wore smarter and not harder we could've easily put the cake mix into the moles freeze them and then dipped them it would've been way easier
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Yeah, tbh, I just dip them in melted chocolate after the cake has set in the molds. I think the finish is a bit neater, but of course that's just my personal preference.
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	I'm in the UK and got them from amazon, delivered the following day.
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Hi! Thank you 🥰 you are right it's easier to dip them in the chocolate that's how I used to do it before, but I prefer this method becuase they come out way better look
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Hello, if you can't use buttercream you can add any frosting that you like, other options would be chocolate ganache, cream cheese, spreading butter like peanut butter o

POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@Cooking Fantasies Thanks a tonn dear 🙏
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Can you suggest.. instead of butter cream what can we use ???
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	Use canned frosting or Nutella, even chocolate ganache will work
NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	What is buttercream?? Is it like cream cheese
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	That looks so soft, so delicate and of crs delicious... Sure m going to try it vry soon..... My next target is get those icecream case in which u froze them
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	You could probably make cake pops in the mold without the chocolate, freeze them for a few mins to harden up then take them out of the molds and let them come to room tem
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Awesome
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	I will definitely try this! Thank you! About how many come out of one box ?
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	gadaja it's powdered icing sugar or confectioners sugar and butter that are mixed together with milk or water and vanilla. She says what it is in the video.
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Hi! Thank you, and I'm glad you will try them 😊 I didn't quite understand your question sorry, I don't know what you mean by box! in case you mean cake mix box, a lot!
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Thank you 😊
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	you're welcome dear! gladly ❤️
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	it's butter beaten with icing sugar until fluffy and pale, to which you add a dash of milk or heavy cream to smooth it and you add some vanilla for flavor. if you search
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	You are right it's easier to dip them in the chocolate that's how I used to do it before, but I prefer this method because they come out much better looking and neater,
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	The silicon molds you get from amazon ebay or if not in hurry from aliexpress! They are totally worth it for cakesicles and delicious ice creams for summer. Thank you fo

NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	I have one question, if i pack them for a wedding to give the guest, will the chocolate melt in the packaging?
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	You have to buy chocolate that sets at room temperature or temper your own chocolate. If not, it will melt at room temp
NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Hi! Sorry for the late reply. Just like any chocolate if it is in room temperature or below it will be fine but if it is too hot they are going to start being sticky and
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	it depends on the chocolate but they will most probably be sticky, this is bad for finger sweets but since these will be held from the wooden stick, it is fine 😊
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Of course you can do that, I use to do it that way before it is easier but the finish is not the same, it is much neater and looks better if you add the chocolate to the

NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	Hello! Was just wondering what size mould you used ?? 😊😊
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	These are so cute and I'm gonna try to make these this weekend for my family!

POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Thank you ❤️ I wish I was your family, I'd like to have some this weekend 😊😊 please let me know how they turn out, much love ❤️😊
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Hi 😊 the mould I use measure 9cm×5cm for each popsicle, the smaller ones are also pretty and the difference is not so big, I hope this helps 😊❤️
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Hi! Yes you can use any kind of frosting that you like, the quantity will be slightly different but it will be the same 😊❤️
POSITIVE	NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	Thankyou so much, I never tried to make them in the mixer, I'll try it next time 😊❤️
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Great job, that looks so delicious. Can I have one 😊😋🔍❤️👍👍
NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Help! As the cake is frozen, when they come to room temp they always have condensation on and it dries funny!
NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	I can understand what you mean even though this never happened to me. Maybe it's the type of chocolate, I think you can avoid that by cooling them in the refrigerator o

NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Nitro Wildfire Right, but they don't say that, so it appears they're just forgetting about the rest of the year.
NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@Mythical Baller Sounds like you're complaining about it. Instead of jamming it into one video I like that I can look back on the 1st half of the season
NEUTRAL	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	Nitro Wildfire I'm not trying to complain. I'm just pointing something out about the title of the video.
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	@Mythical Baller Yeah I get what you mean lol no worries
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Lebron is too old to be as good as he is
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@Zi. Hatz Giannis, he should be the NBA's strongest monster right now, no doubt about itVery good chance he will get MVP👍👍.But emotionally I still hope that LBJ can get MVP👍👍👍👍👍👍

POSITIVE	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Then go watch something that you do understand? Not trying to be mean but doesn't it make sense to watch something
POSITIVE	NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	@Fleur Hufflepuff 👍👍

NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	@poet in a paper bag dude stop wasting your time commenting on everyone's comments on this page. People are allowe
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	People are allowed to joke about whatever they want. If you don't like it don't watch it!
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	ParrotYee Just watch Michael McIntyre because he is just so relatable and that makes him sooo funny 😂😂
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	@Grace Reynolds sorry boss, he's not funny to me
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	@Calamity Terra Its a democracy Arthur....I'm allowed to annoy you..as you annoy me with your comedian credulity.H
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	@Hannah White dude'ss, stop wasting your time commenting on my comments to "everyone" on this page, people are all
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@Hannah White GEÉ'Z Hannah...people have really triggered you to defend something that in the back of your mind y
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@poet in a paper bag who said anything about loving comedians? It's just a job man. No one wants to hear you winge
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@Hannah White You presume to speak for a lot of people Hannah? . And you have also lapsed into ignoratio elenchi?P
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@poet in a paper bag jesus christ you really think using that kind of language makes you superior don't you? You r
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	@Hannah White Átta'girl...let it all out.. you'll show all those six million people who were smarter than you in hi
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	Anyone who expects a seat on the bus because of what they're holding is suffering from a big dose of self entitlem
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	nicole traub I really didn't expect to see a comment like this. I was coming down here to see the abuse in honesty
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	ParrotYee With you all the way. Was bored and typed in best stand ups... and wtf did we get.I need to get my shit
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	Not funny at all.
POSITIVE	NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	That's not what he said😂. He just said that we was holding the bottle- he didn't say that it meant he should have
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Because they are the same people every time.
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Who's the third man?
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	90% of this is totally unfunny.
NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Yeah it does, but this ain't it
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	They ALL are
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	100% agree

NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	Yup. Thats 5 minutes you wont get back (followed by laughter on cue from drunk bbc audience)
NEGATIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@poet in a paper bag now that's way funnier than this lot of crap
NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@Calamity Terra doesn't make him any good though.
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	No he's not
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Yep they've been rumbled
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	@Alexander Marshall Its actually all a conspiracy theory...The comedy (sic.) cunts, put up this click bait..then t
NEUTRAL	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	The holy ghost
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	Did he run around? That's always not funny.
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	That's a little harsh
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	@Calamity Terra No Aussie would even consider having manners when talking to a flop with a stupid pommy name like
NEGATIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@poet in a paper bag yep, anyone who finds this funny needs to get out more 😊
NEGATIVE	NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	@poet in a paper bag running around is funny isn't it?. Or at least it was in the days of the keystone cops in the
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	@voice_of_reason Bring back the hook I say...I think the comedian in a paper bag, Andy Kaufman was the last to use
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	A A entirely out of curiosity.....what did Greece do in ww2? This probably sounds passive aggressive but I don't m

NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	When was this filmed? I barely recognize Romesh.
NEUTRAL	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Did that really need to be said? He can't control the sound of his voice. If you can't say anything nice, don't s
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	@Jadeskorpion thats you? No right. You are welcome to ignore my comment.
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	A lot of negative comments. I found the first five very good.
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	What is the name of the second person?
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Atom its the internet
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Ava Baker-Ralton Trevor Noah
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Jack Whitehall mentioning how British people will always take free stuff, example of this: The British Empire...
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	That second one about traffic lights is a true entertainer
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Why?

POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Somebody's holding up a card saying "laugh"
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@voice_of_reason Na!...that's old school. The audience is so excited to participate that the laughter response is
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@poet in a paper bag this is why you've gotta bully the inferiors so that you stay superior, unfortunate but true
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	@Alexander Marshall Organise yaself a gap year -career path thing..n'that.
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	@ParrotYee Yeah....I remember the school yard from 70 yrs ago. The comedians were the timid...now their the cunts
POSITIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	hahaha.. the one about nemo got me laughing real hard.. piss off! right on.
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	NEGATIVE	Btw his name is trevor noah and he has his own stand up comedy
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	@MARCUS ROID thanks, I'll check out his videos
NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	NEGATIVE	This isn't funny at all.
NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Where quarantine lead me
POSITIVE	NEUTRAL	NEUTRAL	Who is the third guy prefunny?
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	Hardly cracked a smile, which is surprising as I'm a big fan of most of them!! But the second guy about the traffi
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	I love Trevor Noah! :)
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	The first guy looked like Niall Horan in side view
POSITIVE	POSITIVE	POSITIVE	The third one was so good 🤔
